10235TH MEETING* (AM)

SC/16470

8 October 2026

Unanimously Adopting Resolution 2830 (2026), Security Council Renews Sudan Sanctions Regime for Two Months, Panel of Experts' Mandate for Three

The Security Council today extended until 11 December the 1591 Sudan sanctions regime, including targeted sanctions and an arms embargo, to permit additional time for negotiations on extending the measures.

Unanimously adopting resolution 2830 (2026) (to be issued as document S/RES/2830 \(2026\)), the Council — acting under Chapter VII of the Charter of the United Nations — also reaffirmed and extended the mandate of the Panel of Experts assisting the Committee monitoring the implementation of these measures until 11 January 2027.

Today's text is regarded as a short-term technical rollover. The sanctions regime, as well as the Panel's mandate, were last renewed on 11 September 2026, for one month. That rollover, similarly abbreviated, marked 21 years since the regime was first put into place through Council resolution 1591 (2005), which established a sanctions Committee tasked with overseeing sanctions measures imposed by the Council, comprising an arms embargo in relation to actors operating in Darfur, a travel ban on designated individuals and an assets freeze list on designated individuals and entities.

It also set up a Panel of Experts, composed of five experts, to aid in the monitoring and investigation of the effectiveness of the implementation of such measures.

At its latest briefing on Sudan, the Council heard that the escalating war in the country, in its fourth year, has exacerbated one of the world's worst humanitarian crises and risks leading to even more mass atrocities. During this meeting, members crossed swords over the sanctions measures, with some vociferously against them, and others making an equally impassioned case for them to be further strengthened and expanded.
